

Chicken Drop Soup

I have always loved Tracy, but she does have one weird idiosyncrasy. She has never liked eggs. She would not eat them. First kid I have ever seen who would not eat eggs. So, she never ate eggs, until.....

We were at a Chinese restaurant, and I had ordered egg drop soup. “What is that Tracy asked,” and I quickly replied, “Chicken drop soup. Would you like to try it.”

When her Mom tried to correct me, a finger to my lips silenced her, and Tracy not only tried the chicken drop soup, but finished all of it. So, I learned to make it at home, and always keeping her from seeing the process, added chicken drop soup to home fare.

Those Chinese sure are tricky, fooling kids like that.